Visitor Guide

Located in Frankston South, Frankston Nature Conservation Reserve is an ideal place to explore many of the Mornington Peninsula's native plants and animals. Visitors to the reserve can enjoy walking, cycling and jogging.

Opening hours

Frankston Nature Conservation Reserve is accessible at all times on foot or bike. Vehicles can access the carpark via an auto-gate during daylight hours.

Getting there

Frankston Nature Conservation Reserve is located in Frankston South. Vehicle access is via Jeremy Way. Pedestrian access is available via Jeremy Way, Harry Court, Frankston-Flinders Road, Rinella Bushland Reserve and Lawson Avenue.

Things to see and do

Walking, jogging and cycling

The shared paths in the park are popular with walkers, joggers and cyclists. The park offers short walks, a 5km circuit jog and connections with adjacent parks including Sweetwater Creek.

Dam Walk – 600m, 15 minutes return

Starting at the Jeremy Way carpark, this short walk or ride to the dam wall provides one of the best viewing points in the park. The trail is suitable for all ages and abilities. Keep an eye out for terrestrial and aquatic water birds.

Heathland Bush Circuit – 1.8km, 45 minutes return

Starting at the end of the dam wall, this trail loops through damp heathy woodland. Wander through upper canopy eucalypts, a shrub layer including wattles and tea-trees, and abundant ground level native grasses and sedges. This trail offers an amazing diversity of wildflowers and showcases the remnant bushland of Frankston South.

Kookaburra Bush Circuit – 3.1km, 1.5 hours return

Starting at the Jeremy Way carpark, this trail takes you up a gentle slope where you can look out over the water before walking around the reservoir. This circuit is one of the best ways to explore and experience the reserve. Not suitable for prams or bikes.

Reservoir Circuit Trail – 5km, 1 hour return

Walk, jog or cycle around the reserve on the wide gravel Reservoir Circuit Trail. This trail takes in the high point of the reserve which includes spectacular views of the Melbourne city skyline and Port Phillip. This trail features running distance markers each kilometre.
